

Impactful Self- Introduction

An introduction about self, for interview, presentation or a work meeting, is your entry into a conversation. It's the one thing that'll determine how the conversation progresses. For someone who's never met you before, you can help them understand you a little better.

Let's look at an example of a short self-introduction for interview.

“Good Morning. My name is Alia and I am a Communications Associate at YX Inc. I'm passionate about Digital Media Marketing and I always stay on top of trends to connect with our readers.”

When you talk about who you are, what you've done professionally or personally and where you're from, you are essentially providing the listener a glimpse into your life. A self-introduction that's relevant and powerful can alter the course of an event. And if this event is your job interview, you need to pay a lot more attention.

What you say can give the listener a chance to ask follow-up questions about your experience or skills. Here, the ball is in your court and you can route the interview in your desired direction as the follow up questions will always be from your introduction. In this case, the listener will obviously be the hiring manager or recruiter. A self-introduction sets the pace for how your interview will unfold. Whether it's a structured or unstructured interview, you'll likely be asked to answer “tell me about yourself”. If you're wondering how to give a self-introduction, remember that being authentic and true to yourself is one of the most effective ways to make a good impression.

Talk about something you're passionate about or have hands-on experience in to enrich your self-introduction. You can elevate your introduction with personal experiences because they add substance to your profile. They're what make you, you.

A self-introduction for interview isn't just about the words you say, it's also about how you present yourself through your expressions and your attitude. Talking about yourself and the things you've done doesn't have to be difficult because you already know the answers.

How To Craft An Effective Self-Introduction

It may seem simple but writing and preparing a self-introduction for interview or something else can take a lot of work. What you need to do is to start with the basics. Your name, experience, current role can be the first few things you add to your self-introduction. Understanding how to give self-introduction takes practice and experience.

Here are some steps on how to give self-introduction:

1. Structure your content well.
2. Stay calm and composed.
3. Strike a balance between personal and professional life.
4. Don't be afraid to talk about your strengths and weaknesses.
5. Be prepared to answer questions.
6. Keep it short and easy to understand.
7. Support your experience with examples.
8. Know yourself, speak yourself.

Training Session on Placement Cell Digitalisation: Effective use of ERP

DMS Placement Cell organised a training session for placement cell members of Law and Media School on 3rd December, 2021 at 9:45 am in the Board Room. The resource persons for the event were Ms. Pooja Tripathi, Assistant Professor, DME Management School and Dr. Pooja Sharma, Assistant Professor, DME Management School. The purpose of the training session was to acquaint the fellow placement cell members on how to effectively use ERP for placement cell activities.

The event began with Ms. Tripathi briefing about Placement Cell Tab functionality in Collpoll. She briefed about how an opportunity is uploaded on collpoll for students to reflect in their account. The steps of first creating a company and then creating an opportunity were demonstrated and queries of the members present were resolved.

Thereafter, Dr. Pooja Sharma discussed how the CV vetting exercise was conducted in DME Management School. Dr. Sharma told that first students' choice filling exercise was undertaken whereby students were segregated on the basis of the domain- HR, Finance and Marketing. Then based on the faculties' specialisations, students were allocated to each faculty to guide them on how to create CVs. A subject was created under each faculty profile where students were added by each faculty as per the assigned student list. A specimen copy of the CV was shared with the students by creating assignment tab. The faculties took meeting to first brief the students about how to make CV as per the shared format and then vetted the same post submissions made by students on Collpoll. The students then submitted the revised CVs as per the comments provided by faculties after vetting exercise.

The session concluded by emphasising on using ERP for undertaking different activities of the placement cell. It helps in eliminating the usage of emails to individual students and collecting data of interested students for opportunities as well as training students for the opportunities.

The session was followed by a question-and-answer round wherein the members clarified their doubts.

Orientation Programme- Phase II (Day 2)

DME Management School organized the 2nd day of Orientation Programme- Phase II for BBA, Batch 2021-24 on 8th December, 2021 via Zoom at 10:00 am. The Programme was held in the form of three sessions. As it unfolded, the session became a spring of great inspiration and learning for all BBA students and aspirants with entrepreneurial dreams in the all so important socio-environmental domain of our human existence! The resource person for the first session on the topic 'How to Overcome the Fear of Numbers' was Mr. Swaraj Manchanda, Assistant Professor, DMS. Following a brief but impressive introduction of the speaker by CA Mansi Sabharwal, Assistant Professor, DMS, on behalf of the DME family, Mr. Swaraj Manchanda took the charge of the session. Thanking DME for the opportunity to talk to the students, Sir started the session with a statement that there is considerably large proportion of people that doesn't really like numbers, doesn't like discussing them, and in some cases are actually afraid of dealing with them. He further added that fear of the number thirteen is illogical but it feels very logical to many people. The number thirteen is so anxiety provoking that people who are afraid of it go out of their way to avoid seeing it. It is possible, however, to overcome this fear and teach oneself that there is nothing to be scared of. Sir then opened the session for questions from the participants. Several questions were put up by the students, most of which were related to psychological aspect and superstitious belief which are the root cause of such fear. To each of these questions, the prominent speaker and achiever provided the most convincing answers. Before he concluded his most interesting interactive session, Mr. Manchanda had a word of career advice for students - "Whatever you take up, ensure that you love doing it and don't take it as per advice by others. Just be you!" He also guided students to have command over tables, square roots, etc.

This was followed by Peter F. Drucker session. The speaker of this session was Mr. Manu Manohar Shyam, Head Hr- Mobility Sales, Reliance Jio, who focussed on 'Top Employability Skills Needed in Post Pandemic World.' The webinar session commenced with the distinguished guest welcoming all participants to this forum. He confessed that COVID-19 pandemic had bolstered his staunch belief in the power of adaptation to ensuing circumstances. Setting the tone for his webinar session, Sir said that "difficult times are a part of life; what matters most is how to come out of it. Essentially, it is all about TAIYYARI JEET KI! Starting a career is a journey and an uphill task. Building your career is a voyage and your college's education will you prepare you the best for this." The talk by Sir revolved around three key parameters viz., mindset, strategy & courage. To quote his words, "Failure is not real; it is an opportunity to grow. In addition, one needs to have the growth mindset instead of a fixed mindset. When you hit the rock bottom, you can only go up through courage and innovation and creation of a right strategy to achieve your goals and dreams." Talking about the "corona disruption" of the world, he enumerated a number of new age jobs for the students to think about as a career. According to him, "The game has changed.

Old was Business- oriented, the new is Customer-oriented. Old was Static, the new is Adaptive. So what is the magic in new? It is to ADAPT, LEARN, DELIVER and REPEAT."

Needless to say, this session by a highly energetic and experienced professional was a veritable treat of knowledge and motivation for all the approximate 170 participants who attended this session.

The closing session for the day was taken by Prof. (Dr.) Rashmi Nagpal, Dean, Law School, DME. The eminent guest opened the session by confessing her excitement and happiness to be with students and welcomed them to this workshop on the very relevant topic of "Menace of Ragging and Bullying" in the fast changing world. Outlining the broad changes underway in the functioning of educational sector worldwide, Ma'am stated that bullying has severe detrimental effects on those who are bullied. The effects can be immediate. They can also be long-term and can cause lifelong damage. In every bullying situation, there are typically three key parties: the victim, the bully or bullies, and those who stand by (by-standers), who are aware of the bullying. In fact, according to Dr. Nagpal, some of the reasons given by students for ragging are they were also ragged by their seniors; sense of superiority; and introduction. As is evident, in order to counter these problems in the education world, awareness about rights, law and punishment has become the need of the hour. This, according to Dr. Nagpal, can be achieved "when students are sensitized about human rights, democratic values, respect for diversity and equality, and respect for privacy and dignity of others. This can be done with the help of role-plays, street- theatre (nukkad-natak), group-discussions, debates, special assemblies in schools, poster competitions, etc. Ma'am believes in the idea that simple solutions help transform lives and make life easier for masses.

Dr. Nagpal answered all the questions asked by students at the end of session. It was finally concluded with a Vote of Thanks by Dr. Krishna Panday, Associate Professor DME Media School and Convenor, Anti Ragging and Anti Bullying Committee.
